

Presenting Buildings that respect nature...

Nature provides Architects with an amazing array of solutions for many complex problems that they face today. By delving more deeply into how nature solves problems that we experience today, we can extract timely solutions and find new directions for our built environments. Many masterpieces have been inspired by nature.

In this calendar- the eighth in our series of annual theme desk calendars – Sharon presents BUILDINGS THAT RESPECT NATURE. We hope that this inspires you to continue dreaming and create your own master piece.
